OPERATION SANDBAGS IN RED RIVER VALLEY

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1965 -104 PAGES

Valley began taking precautionary measures Friday against the swollen Red River as it continued to edge toward flood

The province, hard hit by floods in 1948 and 1950, has been declared in a limited state of emergency by Premier Duff Roblin who toured parts of the Valley Thursday.

Residents in low-lying sections of Winnipeg began throwing up sandbag dikes as the water slowly rose. It was 20.1 feet above the average winter ice level at the James Avenue pumping station at midnight—a half a foot higher than 24 hours earlier.

At the border town of Emerson, 70 miles south of Winnipeg, officials predict the water will be five feet over the banks when the crest hits Wednesday.

Six Cars Plunge Over Bank

TERRACE BAY, Ont. (CP)-The Canadian Pacific Railway's crack passenger train, The Canadian, was derailed early today when it hit a washout three miles east of this north shore Lake Superior conmunity.

A railway baggage man was killed. A CPR spokes-man said 47 persons were injured, none seriously.

Police identified the dead man as Charles Kannegiesser, 38, of Fort William.

A report from the scene said the derailed cars rolled down a bank about 125 feet deep. The accident occurred about 1:15

A CPR spokesman in Winnipeg said the two diesel locomotives and nine cars, including a baggage car, left the rails and bank. Five cars remained on the rails.

An auxiliary crew with a crane and flat car was sent from Fort William, about 140 miles west of here. Cars remain ing on the tracks were towed back to Schreiber, nine miles west of Terrace Bay. Work crews, using cutting torches where necessary, did not extract the last of the passengers from the smashed cars until about 7 a.m. They were hampered by deep snow, remnants of a heavy winter fall. Engineer Austin Cosgrove

100 MPH WINDS BATTER EIGHT ABOARD FISHBOAT

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) - The battered 68-foot halibut boat B.C. Mac limped into this north coast port Friday night, her wheelhouse, directional gear and deck fittings swept away in one of the worst storms in the experience of her veteran skipper.

Eight men, including five from Nova Scotia, were aboard as the Vancouver-based halibuter survived winds as high as 100 miles an hour during a two-day gale in the Bering

Said skipper and part-owner Milton Bush of Prince Rupert: "There were many times during those two days of storm when we were sure we were going down. I can't tell how we made it but we'did and I'm thankful.

"The winds ranged as high as 100 miles an hour and the seas were as high as 40 to 60 feet. It was just one great mass of white water. Then one huge wave fell on top of us. It was just a matter of a few seconds and then it was all over.

"But the boat was left in real poor shape. Two of our three wheels had been put out and I'was able to keep the third one going by shutting off the hydraulic lines to the other two to keep oil from draining out. * * *

"We went 20 hours through the storm after that before the weather eased and we were able to make it back to port. Fortunately our engines were not put out."

The big halibuter also lost her radio equipent in the storm as she tried to cross the Gulf of Alaska in the same area where the Vancouver fishing boat Sea Ranger disappeared with eight men two weeks ago. Skipper Bush brought her back to port with the aid of a small compass which escaped

The skipper estimated damage to the vessel at about $20,000. The skipper and two crew members suffered minor injuries in the gale.

The whole front page was given over to advertising and among the advertisers were the proprietors of the "powerful steam tug." The Beaver, then captained by J. D. Warren and owned by Henry Saunders.

George H. Maynard, Fort Street, was advertising "boots and shoes for the million"; the Pacific Telegraph Hotel, Store Street, claimed to be "the most commodious and clean" in Victoria: John Goodacre and Co. on Yates Street offered prime hams and bacon and "meats of the choicest quality." Barber shop proprietor William Whittaker advertised 10 - cent shaves, 25-cent haircuts and 25-cent shampoos; and H. Simpson announced that the royal mail stage for Saanich district would leave Victoria every Wednesday and Saturday at noon.

Another notice stated that "The Bank of British Columbia prepared to issue drafts on the Hong Kong and Shanghai

The boom in Saanich was told graphically to realtors this week by Reeve Hugh Curtis.'

He contrasted figures for a number of expenditures in 1951 with 1963.

One of the most startling was that in 1951 there were no sanitary sewage pipes while 12 years later there were more than 100 miles of piping. Tax assessments rose from $47 million to $94 million; the budget increased from $1.7 million to $5.6 million; permanent municipal employees advanced from 123 to 295, and the oters list moved up from 14,000 to 25,000.

During this period, nearly 7,000 building permits worth $64 million were issued.

Viet Parley Still Aim Of British

Minister Wilson made it clear Friday on his return from talks with President Johnson that Britain soon will try to get some of the countries involved in the Viet Nam crisis to a conference table.

This will take the form of Britain sounding out Russia about an international conference on Cambodia that could also allow private East-West talks on ways to end the war in neighboring South Viet Nam. Wilson said one or two of the governments concerned had to be consulted on whether there way in_which Britain could usefully follow up President Johnson's recent offer to enter Viet Nam peace talks without conditions

In an airport statement on his from Washington, Wilson did not arrival by chartered airliner name the governments concerned, but it appeared certain that he already was sure of President 'Johnson's approval for Cambodia conference plan.

The Price of Cars

stated in the House this week that he was satisfied the Canadian-American auto free trade plan was working out satisfactorily. This was in answer to a question by NDP Leader T. C. Douglas as to how Ford Motor of Canada was able to sell Canadian-made ears in the United States for about $200 less than they sell for in Canada.

The question deserves a fuller answer than the prime minister gave because it strikes at a vital point of the free trade arrangements - the agreement between the Canadian government and the manufacturers that high prices for the Canadian product could be used to provide investment capital for enlarging productive capacity in this country.

Spokesmen for the industry in Canada, which is wholly controlled by American companies, have always claimed that Canadian car prices are high because cars cost more to produce for a smaller market. Once the free trade arrangements were in full swing, thus providing a larger market and lower production costs-and after the extra capital investment had been repaid-Canadians could expect to find the price of cars moving down to meet the American price.

But the Ford move raises the question of just how much more it does cost to produce autos in this country than in the United States. By exporting 400 cars a month, which is the company's plan, does Ford achieve any striking produc-

DRIME MINISTER PEARSON run. Is Ford, then, taking a loss of $80,000 a month on the deal for some obscure reason? This would seem to be a strange way to do business.

Or is the company able to sell Canadian cars in the American market and still make a profit? And are Canadians paying some $200 above that profit for their cars as the price of achieving free trade in autos?

These are questions we would expect to have answered in Parliament, for there is something incongruous in the fact that Canadians are expected to put up the whole cost of building extra production facilities in this country which will, in the long run, be returned to the owners of the industry as profit. It is certainly true that this country will benefit from increased employment if the free trade plan works out-at wages approximately 20 per cent lower than those paid American workers-but this is of little concern to the industry's owners who make approximately the same profit no matter in which country their cars are produced.

Fortunately, the free trade pact comes up for debate in Parliament this session and some of the confusion surrounding the question of just when Canadian car prices will be lowered should be cleared up. In particular, the government may be persuaded to make public the nature of its heretofore secret arrangements with the auto manufacturers and to work out some price formula on Canadian cars which at an early tion economies? It seems unlikely, date will allow consumers in this since the extra output is less than country to share in the benefits of

To Smooth Out Kinks

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S MINI-Dan Campbell, takes a logical step in furthering certain joint services for this community by planning another meeting of municipal leaders for the early summer.

Legislative provision has now been made for the establishment of joint boards - amended at the last meet objections from some munisovereignty. By the amendment, councils may call for a decision from their own voters for or against inclusion in any particular project, or inclusion in a regional district com-

With that principle established, Mr. Campbell is well advised to call the early summer meeting. At it he will be in a favorable position to outline not only the various services which he believes would fall propsession from its original draft to erly under the jurisdiction of joint administration, but also to remove cipal spokesmen that it threatened certain misgivings about the joint to rob councils of too much of their, services concept by clearing up misunderstandings.

FROM WASHINGTON

Watchdogs Silent on U.S. Spending

In ONE of the Sherlock Holmes stories, the master disentangles the mysteries because a dog did not bark when it should have barked very loudly and angrily. For amateurs of political detection, Washington at the moment offers a comparably intriguing and comparably negative clue. A terrible rumpus ought to be going on about

"Democrat spend Republicans should be calling heaven to witness, from all available rostra, against that monster of dissolute extravagance in the White House, that drunken sailor with the public purse, Lyndon Baines Johnson.

Chambers of Commerce and big businessmen of every description ought to be warning suddenly of the burden of debt being laid upon "the next gen-eration." Yet none of these long familiar spells and abracadabras is now being heard, although they have been passionately, thunderously and inces-santly recited during all Democratic administrations for more than a quarter of a century.

Big Spending

Furthermore, those lights the President keeps turning out in the White House in his slyboots way, really ought not to have distracted the attention of the professional watchdogs of the public purse from the rather obvious fact that this is going to be a big-spending administration. The President has used the thin-end-of-the-wedge technique keep the starting prices low, but the costs of his programs will be substantial before long.

Some of the costs are already ve substantial. The great education bill, which the President has just signed, is estimated to call for initial outlays of $1.3 billion a year, and one may be sure that large appropriations will required as the program develops. Again, the Medicare bill, a amended adds over $750 million to the federal budget. It increases the total annual take of the Social Security system by over $7.5 billion. And it will probably lead to the collection of another $560 million in voluntary contributions to an insurance plan to pay old people's doctor bills.

Not Trifling Items

These are not trifling items, but almost the same scale. The Appalachia bill provides for total expenditures of $1.1 billion over a five-year period. But the most important spending program in the bill-road construction to link the remote areas of Appalachia with the modern U.S. economy—is discreetly limited to two years. In reality, further road construction authorizations will surely be needed, bringing bill's five-year cost to around $2 billion.

Again, the Johnson housing bill is a model of thin-end-of-the-wedge tactics. It does not add a nickel to the current budget, but it will be different when the program gets going. In 1969, the new construction in the bill is likely to cost $300 million; the bill's program

Then there is the poverty program, already up from $800 million to $1.5 billion a year, which is also a growth stock of the highest class.

The truth of the matter is that the President has started out in a small way to deal with a long series of gigantic national problems. He has been wise to start in a small way Efficiency is always insured, admir istrative dropsy is always most easily avoided, by making a modest beginning and going on from there. Equally, there can be no doubt that the President has been wise to tackle these huge problems. He could not prudently or ecently avoid tackling them, in fact.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

But it is also a fact that the mere decision to tackle these problems must lead to very much heavier spending as time goes on. So one gets back to the mystery of those watchdogs that are barking now, yet have always barked in the past when any Demo cratic President asked for funds to solve a national problem, however urgent it might be

Have the watchdogs been drugged by the wily Mr. Johnson? In part, per-haps, they have. Mr. Gordon's Horseshoes

T IS abundantly evident from the budget papers that in the fiscal year 1964-5 the sun of prosperity shone on this fortunate country and, in particular, upon its mini-ster of finance, Mr. Walter Gordon, The economic review fairly bulges with favorble statistics. The boom boomed on; GNP rose a whopping was up except the deficit, which shrank mercifully to a mere $83 million (or, if we include the $64 million surplus on old age security account) to an insignifi-$19 million in these glorious 12

The news, indeed, is so good that it may appear somewhat ungracious to point to an obvious additional fact. Every economic horseshoe and four-leaf clover worked for Mr. Gordon with the single glaring exception of his own announced

As has been made clear on numerous occasions, the minister is not a man who worries unduly about deficits. He is the advocate in appropriate circumstances of the planned deficit which he regards as a virtuous generator of good times. In planning last March for a deficit reduced to $455 million, he told support of the general level of incomes and employment makes it undesirable to go further at this time."

Good, Healthy Deficit

The choice of words was significant. Mr. Gordon did not say that it would be impractical to go further; he said it would be "undesirable". This undoubt-edly reflected his considered view that what the economy needed was the additional stimulus of another good, healthy deficit.

The budget papers show clearly that the calculations were unsound. Mr. Gordon was not far out (.9 per cent) in his reckoning of expenditures. civilian department spent about 9.5 per defence expenditures, Mr. Hellyer's pruning thus enabled the minister of fin to come within $64 million of his spending estimate. But the revenue story was The calculation of revenues is inherently difficult because they depend on the state of our very open economy which is subject to forces (including nowadays the weather in Russia) beyond the control of the Canadian government. But Mr. Gordon's error was unusually large. He was out by $436 millions—a startling 61/2 per cent. It would be quite unfair to suggest that this was deliberate. No minister would intentionally mislead Parliament and the business and the financial community. When Mr. Gordon in 1963 planned an even larger deficit of $655 million, he was by no means abashed to find himself close at year-end with a $685 million shortage. The wisdom of the policy was, he felt, self-evident.

Unpopular Sales Tax

We must assume therefore that the calculation he could, accepting the odium of an unpopular sales tax on building materials and production machinery in order to bring the deficit to the figu of $455 million which he thought desirable in the circumstances. His mistake was that he seriously underestimated strength of expansionary forces in economy.

The performance of the economy cannot have been attributable to the policy of the budget speech because that policy was not followed. Mr. Gordon imagined that he was supporting incomes and em-ployment by running substantial deficits but in fact he must have been in balance for most of the year. Although his intentions conformed to the dictates of the avant-garde economists, he so misread the economic situation as to pursue a policy which accorded with the much disparaged conventional wisdom. Except for the calculations, everything went remarkably well.

Mr. Gordon's experience, fortunate though it proved for the country, may arouse a certain skepticism about the possibilities of precise budgetary manipulation of the economy. If a 61/2 per cent error is permissible in one direction, it is also conceivable in the other: as a matter of fact revenues failed notably on occasion to come up to the ex-pectations of the minister's unfortunate predecessor, Mr. Fleming

Wild Surmise

This evidently means that a minister of finance must calculate nowadays within a range of $800 to $900 million between upper and lower revenue limits. Having made this wild surmise, he must then determine whether or not the economy requires an additional shot in the in the form of a massive deficit and, if so, how many additional hundreds of millions would be a desirable injection. If fortune favors him, he may, like Mr. Gordon be wrong in the right way. But if the revenues, responding to uncontrollable forces, betray him, he may find that he has used the wrong icine and so made matters worse.

There will shortly be another budget. Mr. Gordon's prescriptions are secret but we shall no doubt learn that they are exactly appropriate to the present condition of the Canadian economy. Planning must obviously be meticulous for, with the approach to full utilization of our resources, there is increas danger that artificial stimulation of the economy will set off the price increases against which the Economic Council has warned. As we can scarcely clovers, we must hope that Mr. Gor-don's calculations are sounder than they were last year.

Not So Angry Or Young

By TONY EMERY

LABELS are convenient and helpful aids to the identification of the contents of bottles, drawers, files and luggage, but they are sometimes misleading when draped round the neck of artists, poets and n o v elists. "(Impressionism" and "im-pressionist" are good examples of this dan-ger. The label fits Monet. Piesare Sisley pretty snug for Emery most of their mature work, but it doesn't do much to explain the work of Degas, who showed in seven of the eight so called "Impressionist" exhibitions, or Manet, who refused to show in any of

The trouble with labels is that unthinking people tend to assume that if a tag line is constantly attached to a man's name it must necessarily be an accurate description of him and his work. I met last weekend a man who has suffered as much as anyone from this wide

John Wain, the English poet, novelist and critic, is one of the young talents that blossomed between 1945 and 1955, a decade that also saw the emergence of Kingsley Amis, John Osborne, John Braine and Colin Wilson. A journalist in a hurry took the title of a novel by Leslie Paul, the personality of Colin Wilson and the diatribes of Jimmy Porter, in "Look Back in Anger," and fashioned a label, "Angry Young Men," which saved a number of people the labor of arriving at their own critical estimate of the heterogeneous works of this strangely assorted

Blurred Image

The image of Colin Wilson commuting from a sleeping-bag on Hampstead Heath to the reading room of the British Mu-seum became a useful archetype for the composite figure of "Angry Young Man", and about that time the image was fur-ther blurred by the "Beat" writers who began to be heard from in the United States. So long as the works of the writers were left unopened, it was easily possible to confuse them one with an-other: Amis and Wain were from the same college at Oxford; Wain and Wilson have names that begin with the same letter of the alphabet; and no general reader can be expected to differentiate between a young novelist called John Wain and another called John Braine.

And so it stuck, for years, this label, and is only now beginning to peel off at the edges. Even today Wain finds that in some parts of the world his appearance-forty, flushed and friendly-disconcerts the reporter and the TV interviewer who are expecting something far-out,

As an interviewer I cannot pretend to any great shakes, since the moment I get interested in an answer I forget about asking any more questions and want merely to go on discussing the points raised in the answer, and I disa-gree enough with Wain on a number of points to get carried away from time to time to a point where I confuse what is meant to be a radio interview with a two-man panel discussion.

Easy to Talk To

But he is an easy enough person to talk to, and he does his best to answer frank questions frankly. The interviewer who has read his books gets a sympa thetic hearing for his questions, because no writer is happy discussing his views on life and literature with someone ignorant of the books in which the writer has tried to record those views in a thoughtful and reasoned way.

Wain has done this, and he has also told a great deal about himself as a person in the autobiography, "Sprightly Run-ning," which furnished the reader with the answers to most of the questions about Wain the man that arise in the mind of the reader reading the books of Wain the writer. (I wondered how the good novel "Hurry on Down" came to be succeeded by the mediocre novel "Living in the Present", and the explana-tion is in the personal difficulties described in the autobiography.) Honesty is, presumably, not one of the outstanding qualities to be expected in an "Angry Young Man", and Wain's honesty is one of the notable things about him.

I enjoyed the evening spent with Wain (and Allan Campbell of the CBC) in which the discussion ranged over the lit-erary scene with a freedom impossible in the studio, where the microphone, the stale air and the hovering shades of the law of 1 ib e 1 and slander inhibit the sprightlier "mots." I also enjoyed the look on Wain's face the next morning when we got down to work in the studio, and he asked innocently for a glass of beer—on a Sunday, in Vancouver.

Wain lives in Oxford, but his wife is Welsh and he spends a great deal of his time near Carnarvon, where he has a cottage. "Is it true that the Earl of Snowdon is commonly referred to in Wales as 'Jones the Palace'?' I asked Wain. "True enough," he said, "and I have even heard the Princess affectionately called 'Maggie Jones, Photos' "For an angry, middle-aged man, he laughs a great deal.

Drunk Driver Tests

I wish to thank the fourth estate and all those who have helped my small campaign against the drunk who drives especially the two Safety Councils and Auto Associations without whose help and advice I could not have continued. At the risk of becoming a colossal-bore, I would like to clarify once more my aim; I simply want a test for suspected drunken drivers. I strongly disagree with Mr. Justin Harbord of Victoria, the re-elected President of the B.C. Insurance Agents Association, who in March was reported by your paper as being against compulsory tests, but is for increased penalties.

If an offence cannot be proved through lack of a test, the size of the penalty is not important. Mr. Harbord's wish would only tend to increase the accident rate and the resultant insurance premiums. — Robert E. Malkin, 2460 Cornwall Street, Vancouver 9, B.C.

Moment Of Truth For Ghana

By ARCH MacKENZIE

A harsh moment of economic truth confronts Ghana, which in 1957 took its independence from Britain as trial-horse for the new wave of African nations to come

Few countries have been launched with more fanfare or good will. Now Ghana is facing economic bankruptcy and the role of its founding president, American - educated Kwame seems to have ex hausted the Ghanaian bank account of sympathy.

Western countries and Japan, it is reported, have declined to bail out the country of about 7,000,000 people on Africa's west coast.

The International Monetary Fund- that 102-nation financial rescue squad which in recent years has helped Britain, France, Canada and numerous other countries through crisis, has been called in for a diagnosis of the tangled Ghanaian economy

But before operating, the fund demands repentance for past sins and firm pledges of sober good conduct for the

But more important, say authorities who for months have been predicting a day of reck-Ghana goaded by Nkrumah's grandiose ambitions has been on a non-stop economic

It has become a bad riskso bad Nkrumah apparently has not been able to rustle up the help he now needs on a vast scale, despite his cultivation of the Communist bloc.

Ghana began a country in 1957 with reserves of gold and foreign exchange totalling about $560,000,000. This has dwindled to an estimated $25,-000,000, some sources say, although a Ghanian spokesman said recently it was $150,000,-

Even the larger figure is inadequate to meet the debts Ghana has piled up in launching a jungle of enterprises, including an airline, and in paying for her imports.

Estimates on her borrowinging requests run to nearly $4,000,000,000. Her immediate needs for debt repayment and imports is reckoned at $800,-000,000 or more. Nkrumah is regarded sour-ly by the United States, one of the last nations approached by Ghana. Nkrumah, a selfstyled socialist, has constant critic of U.S. foreign policy in The Congo. He has been a messianic preachof Pan-Africanism, with himself in a leader's role,

Reputation Fades

His international reputation deteriorated in the West as he systematically destroyed his parliamentary opposition, cultivated his personality cult and suppressed civil liberties.

Economically say his critics, he not only bit off much too soon but he bit it off badly. Many who would not object to Ghana's state control of industries do ob ject to bad planning, inefficiency and what often appears to be prestige programs carried out at Nkrumah's whim.

An exception is the $196 .-000,000 Volta Dam project, to begin full flood control and electricity - producing operations next year. It was financed internationally.

Western hopes for a sucrican nationhood have been transferred for some time to Nigeria. Nigeria has about seven times the population of Ghana and while it recently suffered severe political trou-bles, has consistently shown more stability.

Ads Now 'Respectable'

MOSCOW-Advertising, long condemned in the Soviet Union as a product of Western capitalism, is becoming respectable here.

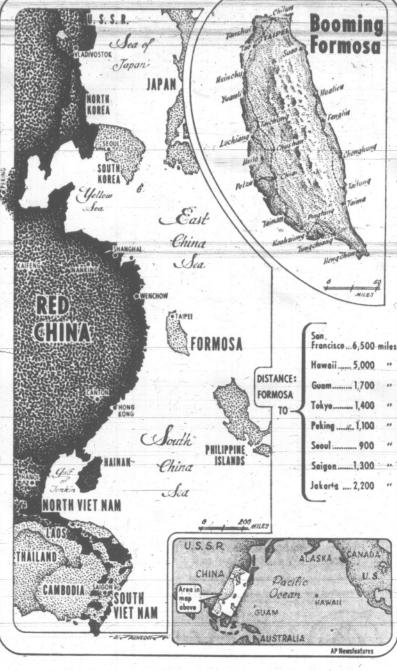

A leading trade official, I.

Lazukov, has even suggested that Soviet television should take to advertising the latest goods on sale in the stores. Writing in the labor union newspaper Trud, he explained that proper publicity helps to choose the things they need and teaches them good taste.

He said that artists should be especially trained for the advertising business and every department store should have its own trained advertising expert.

Propped Up by the U.S. Chiang's Formosa Booms

TAIPEI, Formosa-Sixteen years ago it was written off by most Americans as finished, yet the Republic of China in 1965 is remarkably alive and kicking

Its similarities to Viet Nam and Korea are striking, but there is a difference. Chiang Kai-shek's government-in-exile has cost hardly a single American life since 1949, and is one of the most stable governments in Asia. Economically, things are so good that U.S. economic aid will end in June.

Agriculture is prospering, industry is humming and plans are being made for the introduction of heavy industry.

In 1949, the Communists had decisively beaten Chiang's army of five million and he was barely able, with two million supporters, to escape to this island province 125 miles off the Chinese mainland.

Yet, today the Republic of China is recognized rightful rulers of China's 720 million people by 69 nations (far fewer acknowledge the Communists, who in fact control the country). It occupies China's seat in the United tions. It has never been seriously threatened by the Chinese Communist armed forces of 2,150,000, and instead of losing supporters, it is picking them up.

How, after falling to such depths was it able to pull itself up to its present state?

One answer is that Chiang is a man who does not give up without a fight. His associates, men of shrewdness, intelligence and similar tenacity, poured millions of dollars into great public relations effort, known as the "China lobby," to restore Chiang's tarnished image in the United States.

Reds Helped

Their success was phenomenal, but it alone could not have turned the trick. The Chinese Communists themselves lent a helping hand, first by rebuffthe U.S. was inclined to extend, then by engaging U.S. troops in a bloody and costly war in Korea.

By 1950, the abandoned generalissimo had come to look like the last lonely outpost against Communism in Asia. The U.S. sent Chiang a miliBy JOHN RODERICK

Formosa Miracle

Formosa's "economic miracle" dates from 1962, when the last state of the land reform program was completed Begun in 1949, the Formosan program was carried out in three states. The first was cent down to a uniform 37.5 per cent of the annual crop yield. The second was government sale of all its land to tenant farmers at fixed prices equal to 2.5 times the value of yearly crop production, with payment over a 20year period. The last was a "land-to-the-tiller" law enacted in 1953 which limited absentee landlords to 7.5 acres each. The government bought the surplus and sold it to the present owners in easy instal-As a result, per acre yields of rice has shot up by 41 per cent in 10 years, income of farm families has more than-doubled.

Other factors in the "miracle" include hard work, a sound economic base inherited from the Japanese who occupied the island for 50 years, two years of typhoon-free weather, U.S. aid totalling $1.4 pillion and a cheap labor mar-

The low cost of labor has contributed to an average 11.4 per cent growth in industry, exceeded in Asia only by Japan's. Much of this is light industry such as food processing, textiles, fertilizers, fron petroleum cement. There are 24,700 fac-

THE GALLUP POLL

Wilson Wins Public Support There has been considerable fluctuation in Britain's popular vote during the past few months. In the latter part of last year the Socialists and Conservaeach with 44 percent of the popular vote. In the latest Gallup Poll Labor has gone ahead again with a 7 per cent lead. If an election were held today the Tories would win 35 per cent of the vote, Labor 42 per cent, Liberals 8 per cent and 15 per cent undecided.

Approval of the Labor Government's record to date is pretty well split with disapproval. Almost four-in-ten approve and more than three-in-ten disapprove. The rest don't know.

A majority (56 per cent) is satisfied with Mr. Harold Wilson as prime minister while 26 per cent are dissatisfied. More (42 per cent) disapprove of Sir Alec Douglas-Home as leader of the Conservative Party than approve-38 per cent. The remaining 20 per cent have no opinion.

The U.S. decision to halt onomic aid was based on the fact that Formosa has achieved what it calls "self-generating growth," that is, an ability to look after itself. U.S. officials say much remains to be

Income Low

"There are not enough schoolrooms, social welfare is crude and primitive, government salaries are inadequate. there is much unemployment, and per capita income (U.S. $160 a year) is low," an official said. "It is far from being an affluent society. But it has the capital stock base to paddle its own canoe." Formosa's security has been bought at a price.

Sixteen years after its ouster from China, the republic is still under martial law. Strikes are outlawed: freedom of the press is virtually non-existent, and though there has bee relaxation in recent years, the Kuomingtang has yet to accustom itself to the idea of opposition.

"Despite all this," said one American administrator, "the situation is as good here poli-tically, perhaps better, than it is in Korea and Viet Nam, where we are also involved. We are not on Cloud 9 as some people in Washington think.

The first point that stood out was that many students were on the wrong course. In the Groove Boys and girls ploughed along the accustomed grooves, with little awareness that even if they were committed at A level to a subject in which they-were competent but not deeply interested, there was the chance of choosing new territory at university. "No other subjects, such as sociology, politics, law or psychology, ever occurred to me was information about non-school subjects forthcoming. The choice before me was always between history or

Second, the difference in failure rates between various universities, or the faculties be explained in terms of the poorer quality of one university's entrants than another's. The intriguing illustration is K. Austwicks' survey in Sheffield's arts faculty. This showed that even when the quality of entrants, as measured by A-level marks. ured by A-level marks, doubled, the faculty with fair

But for most there was no such hard-won luck. An exscientist who now serves in a sweet shop epitomises the general waste of talent.

Once the machine carried them into the university the throw-out process began. For those conscious of weakness the psychological atmosphere was like that of Caesar's prisoners waiting for the cen-turions to cut down every tenth man. Only it was often than a tenth, much more.

"On the second day I saw the headline of the student magazine: "Twenty-one Per Cent Fail." I immediately Cent Fail." I immediately realized I had made a gamble. This is what actually hap-pened. At 24 I was on the scrap-heap with no training in anything." Oxford and Cambridge

Not Easy Job

It cannot, of course, be easy for professors to explain to students that this is the end of the line. No doubt some become more experienced than others. It was presumably either custom or economy that led one to inform a student by 'duplicated circular that the Senate regretted that his course had to be discontinued," and another merely to send the student a card "with my exam number on it and the subjects of the exam, with the subject I had failed ticked."

Only eight students said that they were now really helped university. some failures are so shocked, depressed or ashamed that they never turn to the University Appointments Boards, but get out of town quick. This was the testing time. For some, fathers with money or from other universities:-'He said he couldn't speak for other colleges but it was policy of his college not to take throwouts."

Seeking Future

Some drifted from temporary job to temporary job in search of a future:—

"I am really scared when I remember how I stared over brink of psychological ruin.

Many lacked personal advice. All lacked information, lacked the facts and the tools to put them on to their best available future. This may be roughly what happens to individuals. It all begins in the schools. It is extremely important to remind teachers to prepare students for university, and to know about the choice of university courses their background allows them. Some of the following points need keen investigation by some such body as the Research unit for Student Problems, if it got sufficient grants and widespread support.

(1) Can failure rates, which differ so wildly from faculty to faculty, be reduced?

(2) Will easier transfer between courses help? (3) Will more "safety net" courses help?

(4) Shouldn't all failure decisions be confirmed by a reviewing committee? (5) Shouldn't the chance to resit exams be avilable in all

(6) Shouldn't some students allowed four years to take their degree? Isn't too much uniformity expected?

It took the universities an astonishing time to end waste and confusion by setting up their clearinghouse for admissions. It is to be hoped that they halve the wastage problem with more energy and decision. The present plight is not all their fault-but some

Ambulance Provincial Aid Sought

The case for provincial gov rnment responsibility in nonemergency ambulance service will be made by Victoria Ald. Lily Wilson in a meeting with the health ministry. City council health committee Thursday authorized Ald. Wilson to take the matter up with Health Minister Eric Martin.

Ald. Robert Baird suggested ambulance service under B.C. Hospital Insurance might also be subject of resolution to be dealt with by the Union of B.C. Municipalities. Committee heard Ald. Wil-doesn't look as though the responsibility should be on municipality," Mayor Wilson He was referring to the alternative of individual responsbilty, or local subsidization, which had been the practice in Vancouver until recently.

Lower mainland councils are now asking the province to as sume responsibility.

CHAMBER FEELS PINCH OF CITY COST CUTTING

Victoria Chamber of Commerce will feel the sharp edge of city council cost-cutting and reconcile itself with the same $2,500 general operating grant this year.

City council finance committee recommended Thursday that an application for $1,000 more in 1965 be turned down.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said the budget situation this year is tight and it is unrealistic to ask for more money.

It was pointed out the Victoria Visitors' Bureau, an adjunct of the chamber, gets $50,000 grant and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau gets $6,500 grant.

Even though the Good Friday holiday (stock markets in Toronto and Mont-real were closed) cut into the week's volume, more shares changed hands.

On the Toronto Stock Exchange, as on its Montreal counterparts, things were better all round. Four of the five major indexes calculated hourly by the TSE attained record levels this week and volume in more than a few speculative issues soared to above the 200,-000-share mark per day.

The renewal of interest in oil shares was sparked by a pos-sible discovery in northwestern

Alberta by one firm.

Industrials tacked on hefty fractions generally, and some issues had gains of a point or more. Senior base metals and western oils also advanced smartly, as did golds. Trading was heavy

EASTER SUNDAY

A great day to discover how little long distance costs

How much is a voice worth?

That depends on who is speaking, and from where. On this special day, the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened; experiences recaptured. It is a time when togetherness can mean so much and, as always, at such little cost.

Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditure that have actually been reduced, over the years. And after 6 p.m. each evening (and all day Sunday), they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates for yourself in your telephone directory or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." For instance you can call from Vancouver to Prince George in the evening for $1.35; or from New Westminster to Calgary for $1.50; or from Victoria to Toronto for $2.35.*

It costs so little to discover how much these experiences mean - to you, and to those with whom you talk. Today, there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all its worth.

For Starters, Try Andy Hebenton and Precedent

Andy Hebenton, injuries and Those are three of the major obstacles standing in front of Victoria Maple Leafs as they head into the second game of the Western Hockey, League final tonight at Memorial Arena. There are, of course, several other reasons why the Leafs must expect the road to be studded with trouble as they battle Portland Buckaroos for the Leser Patrick Trophy.

But those three will do for Wednesday night at Portland, the man who inspires his mates his never-ending hustle cracked two scoring shots as the Bucks trimmed the Leafs 5-1 in the opening game of the final. Perhaps more than any player, Hebenton had the Buckaroos in an up-and-at-'em mood Rudy Pilous figures his victory chances will be brighter if the Leafs can find a way to snap hobbles on the hustler.

"Hebenton has played well ainst everybody this season, Rudy said today. "He has desire, experience and excellent anticipation. He has no business in this league. He's too good." Injuries could still be a factor in tonight's tussle, although they Leafs finished fourth in the current campaign and the Bucks breezed home in front.

However, one bit of precedent is working for Leafs. On the only occasion Victoria and Portland met in the final, Victoria walked away with the title. The former Cougars gave the city its seventh and deciding game.

And the Leafs have been league's comeback champs this season. They had to struggle the bottom to make the playoffs and they had to win the last three games to oust

Seattle Totems in the semifinals. But Pilous knows the Bucks are tougher than the Totems and he can't expect the same kind of comeback heroics in this best-

Mather Seeks To Open Up Gov't Records

OTTAWA (CP)-A bill to empower the Exchequer Court to force the federal government to disclose any unclassified re-cords and information to interested persons has been pro-posed to the Commons by New Democrat Barry Mather, member for New Westminster.

The bill, expected to be de-

Exceptions would be made for records affecting national security, matters exempted by statute from disclosure, trade secrets or confidential commer-cial information obtained from private persons, and matters of private interest "to the degree that the right to personal privacy excludes the public inter-

UPLANDS SPECIAL TAKES ANOTHER BIG STEP FORWARD!

In 1962, we added the slow-release nitrogen, urea-formaldehyde. Now, the total nitrogen content has been increased from 7% to 9%. This means that Uplands Special now contains 50% more nitrogen than many ordinary fertilizers! And nitrogen is the most-needed of all plant food elements.

Why have we done this?

Because recent experimental research shows that lawn grasses remove nitrogen from the soil at a very fast rate. The approximate ratio of nutrient removal is now known to be nine parts nitrogen to three parts phosphorous to six parts potash. Hence the ideal fertilizer will replace these plant foods in this ratio.

Early last year we field-tested a new 9-3-6 Uplands Special on five local golf courses. All organic ingredients and other plant foods remained the same - only the chemical ratio was changed. Greens-keepers on all five courses reported a positive reaction, with better growth, deeper color and longer feeding action evident.

What new 9-3-6 Uplands Special did on the golf green, it will do in your garden. It is excellent for new lawns, established lawns, flower beds, rockeries, shrubs and trees. But this year you get an extra bonus in nitrogen!

HEALTHY LAWNS

Uplands Special produces quick, early growth, which discourages weeds. A healthy lawn, too, strongly resists lawn moth and brown spot.

LONGER FEEDING ACTION

Uplands Special contains ureaformaldehyde (slow release nitrogen) which extends the active life of the fertilizer over many months. Your lawn will stay green all sum-

But there are some notable ceptions.

Twenty-eight boys and girls from a nearby Arcadia Pres-byterian Church returned Wednesday from a week at the Gila Indian Reservation in Arizona.

Reflecting on what they called "the most spiritually uplifting experience of our lives," they told of painting and repairing buildings, erecting a wire fence around the grounds and clearing weeds from the churchyard.

A major project of the 16 boys was to remodel the Gila Crossing Presbyterian Church so it could be used as a church school. The 12 girls, among other things, conducted daily Bible classes for Pima Indian pre-school youngsters. The teen-agers did their Jews all over the world today are celebrating the 3,000year-old festival of Passover.

The week-long observance. which began at sundown Friday, marks the liberation of the children of Israel from captivity in ancient Egypt. Passover is the oldest of Jewish religious festivals.

Usually celebrated by each family in its own home, the festival began with a ritual meal called the Seder.

The table is spread with the finest linens and best silver. At sundown, the mother lights candles on the table, and the whole family gathers around The youngest child present asks the solemn question:

"Why is tonight different from all other nights?" That is the father's cue to

Negro Pickets Ignore Easter Recess Plea

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)-Charges from civil rights workers that police failed to control insults and harass ment of pickets and that men wearing Ku Klux Klan hoods were seen at a jail have contributed to racial tension in Bogalusa, La.

Negro leaders accused police Friday of failing to control in sults and harassment of civil rights pickets at midtown

A. Z. Young, 43, president of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, said he complained that a city ordinance forbidding un-necessarily loud, offensive, insulting language was not en-forced against the whites.

Police Chief Claxton Knight said an investigation of the complaint showed all reports throughout the day and that state police and FBI agents

The complaint was made dur ing a break in the picketing Negro pickets returned later, to be joined by white counter-pickets who had marched side by side with them earlier Negro leaders rejected a plea by Mayor Jesse H. Cutrer that an Easter recess be called in re picketing."

CLAIMS KKK PRESENT

A Negro civil rights worke Charles Williams, 25, of Boga lusa, said Friday he had en countered men wearing Ku Klux Klan hoods when he was jailed Thursday on charges of vagrancy and disturbing the Police officials denied the charge.

In other racial developments

A three-judge federal court at Mobile ordered Sheriff James G Clark of Dallas County (Selma, Ala.) to cease using members of the county posse to police racial matters. The sheriff frequently has used the posse, composed of civilians, in-cluding horsemen, in racial disturbances starting in January. In separate orders, U.S. district Judge Daniel H. Thomas dissolved a state court injunc tion banning illegal meetings obstruction of just and as-sembly of three or more persons on a public street or in a public place in Selma. Thomas also dismissed charges against 563 civil rights workers and remanded 43 cases growing out of the Selma civil rights drive back to state court.

In Washington, Benjamin O. Davis Jr., was nominated for promotion to lieutenant-general in the air force. He is the first Negro to reach that high a rank the U.S. military.

At Selma, Ala., the city coun endorsed an advertisement run in 21 Alabama newspapers by Chamber of Commerce or ganizations urging equal job op-portunities for Negroes and whites. However, the Alabama Citizens Council praised busi-nessmen who did not sign the

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1965-PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Another day or two and my sweety and I will have recovered from the latest attack of a madness which descends on us every few years.

get out and play golf, and it overtook us at the start of an April holiday.

We could have gone fishing to the Cowichan, where the the annua battle of the borders. Instead, we fell to watch-ing a golf show on television one of those in which a pair of snake-waisted pros boom out stupendous drives and stroke unbelievable putts into the cup. As a result, we once more fell victim to a game we have several times sworn never to monkey with again. The next step was to exhume our golfing gear.

This consists of a bag (Win's), a pair of scarred woods (mine), a clutter of communal irons, and a family heirloom which an old Scotsman once identified for us as a jigger.

This kindly expert also un-dertook to instruct us. "Eye on the ball," he counselled, "pivot as if ye were standing in a barrel, break the wrists at the top o' the swing, and hit from the inside tae the outside!

Next morning, with some balls which had survived our last trek from rough to bunkwe took ourselves off to Mattick's nice little pitch-andputt course.

There, flanked by daffodils and entertained by resident skylarks, we swung from inside to outside, pivoting as if in barrels.

Finally I suggested, "Suppose we quit puttering around with these short holes and try our luck on a fullgrown golf course?"

Win agreed. "If we go far enough out." she said. "maybe it won't be crowded." So early next day, we headed along the blossoming peninula to Ardmore.

When we arrived, the treed and pleasant course was any-thing but crowded. In fact, as I addressed my ball sitting jaunty on the first tee, I could spot only one distant couple.

mbling with golf carts in tow I started my backswing keeping in mind the business of the barrel, the broken wrists and so on.

A car door slammed on the road strip. The ball went galloping off at a tangent into the rough, where I addressed it some more.

By the time Win got teed up, she had an audience of four fellows whose well-seasoned bags bristled with every club in the golfer's lexicon, except maybe a jigger.

Another car door banged. then a third. Win stepped out of her hypothetical barrel and topped her ball for a dribbling little hippity-hop.

"Like to play through?" we Invited the waiting foursome. Then we went to hunt, but not to find, the lost ball.

Golfers — good ones — kept peeling onto the course, With new arrival, our morale ank lower. Before we made it to the first tee, we had oned such niceties as the inside-to-outside swing for desperate swatting.

I perpetrated a drive that ranged off into another

Win pranged two trees with single shot. A cheerful voice behind us hollered, 'Bingo!'

At the fourth, we begged a dignified gent in his late 80s to precede us. He pivoted in barrel, broke his wrists at rowed a whistling drive straight down the middle. Then darn if his silver-haired little wife didn't step up and do the same.

I could go on, but will tele-scope our toffuous zigging and zagging.

Enough to report that we finished our day cuffing the last two balls in the bag along the grassy desert with any club that came handy, even the jigger.

When Win's sprained knuckle and my twisted finger are quite mended, we intend to go trout fishing.

And when some rookie forgets about keeping his elbow down, misjudges his backcast and wraps his flyline around his ears, it's going to give me considerable pleasure to holler, 'Bingo!'

The importance of being (correctly) shirted . . .

The importance of being (correctly) shirted.

The color of his spirt is a dead give-away as to a man's spirtorial savoir faire. We received a capsule lesson in this at Wilson's the other day. when the knowledgeable gentlemen in the men's furn-shings department instructed us in what the Well Dressed Man wears when! To put it briefly, the correct gark is colored shirts (meaning plain, stripes, thecks) until 6 p.m. After this witching hour, white shirts are de rigueur. So now you know, men! Wilson's have a large assortment of fine shirts tailored from imported English fabrics. Those with the Golden Arrow label have the new tab collar. French cuffs. Come in stripes, checks, end-to-end. They're from Arrow's Imperial Collection, and are priced at $8.95. Same price for the fine stripe fabric shirts by Hathaway. which are noted for their soft collar, (as opposed to fused). Single or French cuffs. There are colors and patterns to complement any suit. And of course there are all kinds of white shirts to wear after six, remember?. priced from $5. Wilson's carry only the better quality shirts. but they don't cost a penny more than anywhere cise. and the choice is very complete. W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

A unique fashion revolution for the young . . . now having its effect here . . . began in London when Mary Quant started designing her own highly original outfits.

Haute couture in Victoria . .

Those of you who saw the Fashion Show at the Empress this week-end were undoubtedly impressed with the beautiful collection presented by Victoria designer Ursula Redwood. Everything from softly tailored suits to glamorous evening gowns. original designs hand made in her own workshop. We were lucky enough to watch Mrs. Redwood at work on a fitting last Monday. and we'tell you truly, here is haute couture in the grand manner. Her workmanship is simply exquisite. her taste impeccable. Many of our smartest Victoria women swear by Ursula Redwood. In her studio they can have their own ideas carried out... or leave it entirely up to her. She draws her inspiration from the fabrics themselves. has a thorough understanding of the type of thing a woman should wear. and the fit and "feel" type of thing a woman should wear, and the fit and "feel" we imagined all this exclusiveness must come pretty expensive, and were agreeably, surprised when Mrs. Redwood quoted her prices. Works out at about what you'd pay for any good ready-made suit or dress. and you get something designed and made for you alone! Moreover, if you're handy at sewing yourself, Mrs. Redwood will draught a pattern and cut out your garment for a modest charge. Ursula Redwood, 1008 Fort St., EV 5-5838.

A very complete beauty service . .

Today we've got a beauty questionnaire for you: Is your hair in top condition? . . Have you been wearing the same hairdo month after month, year after year? . Does your hair start drooping the day after it's set? Have you been getting the right type of permanent for your type of hair? Is the color of your hair right for your complexion? . Is your skin too oily, too dry? . Do your nails break or split just when they've reached the right length? . . If your answer to any of the above is "yes" . . then you need the beauty service provided by the House of Glamour! . . Not only is the whole atmosphere in this salon attractive and relaxing, but every member of the staff is thoroughly trained in some aspect of beauty care . . . We scarcely need tell you about the calibre of H of G hair stylists . . they're equally conversant with the basics of beauty care . . coloring, permanents, treating of problem hair . . Apartment living with a difference . . .

Apartment living with a difference . . .

If you were to make a survey of every apartment development in Victoria, we doubt if you'd find as contented a group of tenants as those who live at Christie Point . . . and we can say this with intimate, first-hand knowledge . . . since we happen to be tenants ourselves . . . We've often discussed the matter with various neighbors . . . and the consensus is that while high-rises and such are all very well for those who like being diff-dwellers . . we much prefer our close contact with nature . sitting out on our patios under the trees . . watching the flowers grow in our gardens by day . . the shimmering light-reflections turning Portage Inlet into a fairvland by night . and if all this sounds pretty rustic, we remind you we're only 9 minutes drive from downtown Victoria . At the moment there are still a few very nice suites available . in family blocks, or in buildings set apart for adults only . . and the Townhouses must be seen to be believed . Like living in your own-home, but without any of the work, and with all the advantages of apartment living . Rents are moderate . maintenance and service everything you could wish for . . So how about coming and having a !cok at this unique development? . . Christie Point Apartments, 2891 Craigowan Road, 385-6644.

Now gloves have cut-outs with even a thumbless version ... the no-thumb glove is designed by Hansen of New York and is created for "op-art" causing quite a fashion flurry at the moment.

When planning a complete new outfit, gloves may seem relatively unimportant but it is the small well-co-ordinated details which are responsible for the ultimate perfect picture. The incorrect texture, wrong length or unsuitable color of gloves can mean the difference between a 'nice new outfit' and a 'stunning new costume.

A woman with a sense of fashion knows that any costume, no matter how beautiful, needs interesting and appropriate accessories. Each accessory fashion point. Its role may be to accent, to harmonize, to be to accent, to harmonize, to be bold or complete the pie-

Gloves are purchased by button-length and this seems to create some confusion when gloves seldom have but-Like so many fashion customs, this one is of French origin and began when gloves were fastened with buttons placed one inch apart.

Today "button length' refers to the number of inches it measures from the base of thumb to the top edge. Lengths come in 20, 16, 12, 10 and 8 button length and a new innovation 'no button length.' The latter is a shortie that barely but beautifully reaches the wrist. This is the fashion favorite of the group who are slaves to the sleeveless look.

The most significant thing to remember is that 20th century rules about glove lengths are concerned with fashion rather than time of day or decorum. In the 19th century, bare arms were frowned upon and gloves met sleeve lengths because of prudery. Until very recently, very long gloves were def-initely associated with very formal evenings. Today, the length of a glove is synonymous with elegance

Promise of Easter Renewed Again

Another young man who made his debut last Easter Saturday is Douglas, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kockott of Santa Clara Avenue. Rounding out the family is an attractive two-year-old, Debbie. (Irving Strickland photo)

Last Easter Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Denford of Cedar Hill Cross Road welcomed their first son, Christopher Gordon. The serious-eyed little boy has two sisters, Valerie, 10, and nine year old Laura. (Irving Strickland photo.)

Good Friday in 1963 was a very special one for Mr. and Mrs. Peter N. Oliver of Cedar Hill Road. It was then that their first child, curly-haired Lisa Aileen was born. They now have another daughter, three-month-old Catherine Lynnette. (Chevrons Studio.)

Many Victoria parents have celebrated the Easter weekend in a special fashion, greeting the birth of a new son or daughter. On this page are seen some of the Easter babies for whom the specialweekend will always be one of excitement, joy and family celebration.

> Arranged by PAT DUFOUR, Women's Editor

Sheri Lynn is all smiles as she thinks of her birthday party. She was born last Easter Sunday. She's the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. James Hess of Chamberlain Street. There's an older sister, four-year-old Lori, to help fill Sheri's play hours at home as well as a three-year-old brother, partly.

Stepping out on another year of activity and exploration is Patricia Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Kelly of Woodway Road. She was born last Easter Saturday. Patricia has two brothers. Richard, 11, and Kenneth, nine.

Socred Set To Woo Vote

OTTAWA-While most other members of Parliament took advantage of the Easter recess for a quiet interlude among their constituents, Gilles Gregoire (SC-La-pointe) restlessly crisscrossed rural Quebec on an exacting mission; a hunt for strong candidates to carry the banner of Social Credit into the next federal election cam-

"If we get the right men he told me before he left Ot-tawa, "we'll elect at least fifty deputies. There's an aching political vacuum in Quebec right now that only our party can fill."

The temptation persists among the strategists of all other parties to dismiss such claims, because they've been made too often before and all of the expert opinions (including the private and public polls) indicates that Social Credit is a declining force in Quebec politics.

But Social Credit has al-cossip and rumor down through the deceded. Fess Parker, who plays the famous frontlersman in the adventure series "Daniel Bone" where between the two extremes. "There's no doubt," says Parker, drawing on facts he collected during preparation for his Ty role, "that Daniel was an extraordinary man, a leader of neet. But he was far from perfect."

For institute, relates Parker.
Boone's failure to register property e's failure to register property (even though he was a professional surveyor) cost him a fortune—not once, but twice.

A measure of his attributes, says Parker, is the fact that James Fenimore Cooper used Boone's exploits as the basis for his classic novel, "The Last of the Mohleans." and that Lard for his classic novel, "The Last of the Mohleans." and that Lard the eighth canto of "Don Juan" to the American frontiersman. Ornerding that Boone descrives a here's status in the notion's history, how close to the real Daniel is his current television counterpart? Parker admits there are some differences. And the most obvious are purely physical. According to a description recorded by a contemporary, the corted by a contemporary, the colded by a contemporary, the roal Daniel is his had was inreg, and he had light hair and yellow eyelrows. His head was inreg, and he had blue eyes, and a Roman-type nose. By contrast, Parker stands six-feet-five, has brown hair, green eyes, and a matinee-idol countenance.

"Daniel had nine kids and lived to be 86," Parker notes. "We have only two Boone children in the series, but I don't think it's stretching things too far. After all, I'm still only in whirtees. We have room for

Arthur Mayse

Another day or two and my sweety and I will have recovered from the latest attack of a madness which descends on us every few years.

This is an impulse to get out and play golf, and it overtook us at the start of an April holiday.

We could have gone fishing big brown worked in our garden, getting on with the annual battle of the borders. Instead, we ing a golf show on television-one of those in which a pair of snake-waisted pros boom ou stupendous drives and stroke unbelievable putts into the cup As a result, we once more fell victim to a game we have several times sworn never to nonkey with again.

The next step was to exhume our golfing gear.

This consists of a bag (Win's), a pair of scarred woods (mine), a clutter of mal irons, and a fam ily heirloom which an old Scotsman once identified for us as a jigger.

This kindly expert also undertook to instruct us.

"Eye on the ball," he counselled, "pivot as if ye were standing in a barrel, break the wrists at the top o' the swing, and hit from the inside tae the

* *

Vext morning, with some balls which had survived our last trek from rough to be er, we took ourselves off to Mattick's nice little pitch-andputt course.

There, flanked by daffodils and entertained by resident skylarks, we swung from in-side to outside, pivoting as if in barrels

Finally I suggested, "Sup pose we quit puttering around with these short holes and try our luck on a fullgrown golf

Win agreed. "If we go far enough out," she said, "maybe it won't be crowded."

So early next day, we headed long the blossoming peninsula to Ardmore.

When we arrived, the treed and pleasant course was anything but crowded. In fact, as addressed my ball sitting jaunty on the first tee, I could spot only one distant couple, ambling with golf carts in tow. I started my backswing, ceping in mind the business the barrel, the broken wrists and so on. A car door slammed on the road strip. The ball went galloping off at a tangent into the rough, where I addressed she had an audience of four fellows whose well-seasoned bags bristled with every club in the golfer's lexicon, except

maybe a jigger.

Another car door banged, then a third. Win stepped out of her hypothetical barrel and topped her ball for a dribbling little hippity-hop.

"Like to play through?" we Invited the waiting foursom Then we went to hunt, but not to find, the lost ball.

Golfers - good ones - kept peeling onto the course. With new arrival, our morale sank lower. Before we made it to the first tee, we had abandoned such niceties as the inside to outside swing for desperate swatting.

I perpetrated a drive that boomeranged off into another

Win pranged two trees with single shot. A cheerful voice behind us hollered, 'Bingo'

At the fourth, we begged a dignified gent in his late 80s to precede us. He pivoted in barrel, broke his wrists at the top of his swing, and arrowed a whistling drive straight down the middle. Then darn if his silver-haired little wife didn't step up and

I could go on, but will telescope our tortuous zigging

Enough to report that we finished our day cuffing the Tast two balls in the bag along the grassy desert with any club that came handy, even the jigger.

COLORFUL FINISH . . .

FOR FLOWER FESTIVAL Hop, Goblins Hoot and Bunnies Only thing missing was

By TERRY IZZARD

It was like the morning after the night before.

They were all there; the goblins, the pixies, the fairies, the Easter bunnies . They pranced and danced shouted and screamed; there was no getting away from It was a proverbial night-the pink elephant. In fact they clamored in thousands in downtown Victoria today finale to a week of trips and ships, thrills and daffodils. It was Victoria's colorful ending to the annual flower and daffodils, elfs and Beattles, more than 250 youngsters walked through the city in the Flower Festival parade

A crowd of 2,000 gathered in Centennial Square to give the youngsters a rousing send-off.

In return the bedecked as-

100 MPH WINDS BATTER EIGHT ABOARD FISHBOAT

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) - The batered 68-foot halibut boat B.C. Mac limped into this north coast port Friday night, her wheelhouse, directional gear and deck fittings swept away in one of the worst storms in the experience of her veteran skipper.

Eight men, including five from Nova totia, were aboard as the Vancouver-based halibuter survived winds as high as 100 miles an hour during a two-day gale in the Bering

Said skipper and part-owner Milton Bush of Prince Rupert: "There were many times during those two days of storm when we were sure we were going down. I can't tell how we made it but we did and I'm thankful.

"The winds ranged as high as 100 miles as hour and the seas were as high as 40 to 60 feet. It was just one great mass of white water. Then one huge wave fell on top of us was just a matter of a few seconds and then it was all over.

"But the boat was left in real poor shape Two of our three wheels had been put out and I was able to keep the third one going by shutting off the hydraulic lines to the other two to keep oil from draining out.

"We went 20 hours through the storm after at before the weather eased and we were able to make it back to port. Fortunately our engines were not put out.

The big halfbuter also lost her radio equipment in the storm as she Bried to cross the Gulf of Alaska in the same area where the Vancouver fishing boat Sea Ranger disappeared with eight men two weeks ago.

Skipper Bush brought her back to port with the aid of a small compass which escaped

The skipper estimated damage to the essel at about $20,000.

The skipper and two crew members suf-fered minor injuries in the gale,
